OUR STORY

Bringing the best and brightest to Texas

AT THE TEXAS EXES, our mission is to promote and protect The University of Texas at Austin and unite alumni around the world. One of the ways we do this is by enriching the student experience from the moment they step foot on the Forty Acres to the day they walk across the stage to receive their diploma.

Since awarding our first $100 scholarship in 1899, the Texas Exes' scholarship program has become one of the largest alumni association programs in the country. As the association has grown to more than 106,000 members, our efforts in this vital area have expanded enormously. In the 2017-18 school year, we'll award a record $3.9 million to 650 UT students.

Scholarship awards help us attract the best and brightest students to Texas. Our hope is that these extraordinary students go on to become caring alumni who stay closely connected to their alma mater and serve as mentors to future generations of Longhorns.

FORTY ACRES SCHOLARS PROGRAM

SINCE ITS INAUGURAL CLASS in 2011 of 10 scholars, the Forty Acres Scholars Program, administered by the Texas Exes, has grown into one of the most elite and competitive scholarships in the country. The premier full-ride, merit-based program for The University of Texas at Austin is unique in its dedication to a close-knit and diverse cohort community, and the access it gives scholars to successful alumni.

For more than a century, the Texas Exes has been awarding scholarships that are far more than just a check. We take great pride in supporting the education of these talented young people and guiding them through their time on campus. Forty Acres Scholars are dynamic leaders who go out and change the world, while staying closely connected and engaged with their alma mater. In just a few short years the program has truly been transformative for the association and the university.

As another graduating class of scholars begins their professional lives, the program will welcome the Class of 2021 who stand out by excelling academically, leading their peers, and making meaningful contributions to their communities.

Cuba Libre

Four UT scholars get a dose of cultural immersion
in Havana

By Marisa
Charpentier

WHEN A GROUP of four Forty Acres Scholars boarded their plane from Havana, Cuba back to Florida earlier this year, they accomplished in just 45 minutes what thousands of Cubans have risked their lives trying to achieve for decades: safe passage into the United States. Sitting in her seat, Plan II and government sophomore Chessie Reece reflected on her time in Havana and thought about the Cubans who have died attempting to cross the same 90-mile stretch in homemade rafts. “And they don’t even know what’s on the other side when they come to America,” Reece says. “We knew what we were missing and we knew what we had.”

Reece, along with three other UT students—Plan II and nutrition honors sophomore Mandy Justiz, Plan II and business honors sophomore Chandler Groves, and Plan II and business honors sophomore Seth Krasne—began planning their trip to Cuba last year. Justiz had always dreamed of traveling to the country her family came from. They all wanted the opportunity to see a place that has been frozen in time. After immersing themselves in the history of the communist nation, planning an itinerary, and booking a place to stay, they flew to Havana on Jan. 9, 2017. But no amount of research could have prepared them for what they experienced.

“You’re just not ready to see the way that people live under the regime,” Reece says.

In Cuba, citizens receive less than $30 per month no matter what job they have. The government provides health care, education, and food rations. In recent years, the government relaxed restrictions on private enterprises—like the Airbnb the scholars rented—allowing individuals to have one private business. Their profits, though, are heavily taxed.

“You would walk into these private enterprises and find the friendliest people with great service,” Krasne says. “They’re working for that little bit of profit that they can keep.”

The group feasted on traditional food—black beans and rice, croquetas, yucca, and fried plantain chips—and spent time in art exhibits learning about Santería, an Afro-Cuban religion that formed when African slaves were brought to Cuba to work on sugar plantations. Through the scholars’ interactions with locals, they found Cubans love their land.

“The country has been through a lot of different phases,” Krasne says. “Throughout all of that there’s been a fierce pride.

They’d say, ‘I think the U.S. is a great country, but I’d have a hard time leaving Cuba.’”

One of Justiz’s goals for the trip was to see her father’s childhood home. At age 12, her father left for the U.S. with his 9-year-old sister as part of Operation Peter Pan, sponsored by the Catholic Welfare Program, that provided air transportation to the U.S. for Cuban children. He was then put into the foster care system, until four years later when his parents escaped Cuba on their 33rd try and found him.

On the final day of their trip, the four students drove around the city looking for the family’s former home with only a photo and her father’s old passport in hand. It was difficult to find the home because the neighborhoods had changed. They stopped multiple times to ask people if they’d seen the house before. Then, finally, after an hour and a half of searching, they turned a corner and there it was.

The woman living inside approached them hesitantly, but after Justiz told her that her family once lived there, her expression changed. She welcomed them inside and offered to make them dinner. She told them to call her “tia,” or “aunt.”

“She was incredible,” Justiz says. “She kept such good care of the house. Then I came home and got to show my dad all these pictures.”

Since coming back to the U.S., all four students have urged their friends to see Cuba for themselves. They also hope to incorporate what they’ve learned into their education, whether it be by taking Latin American studies courses or focusing on Cuba in their Plan II senior theses.

“It was a dream come true for me to go and see all of the places that I heard about,” Justiz says. “I remember my dad telling me growing up, ‘Close your eyes and pretend like you can hear the sea breeze and the waves crashing.’”

“It was a dream come true for me to go and see all of the places that I heard about.”

Forty Acres Society

FORTY ACRES SOCIETY members advance educational excellence and enjoy exclusive access to events at the university. Their gift directly supports the enrichment activities of the Forty Acres Scholars, including professional development, leadership training, cultural and educational opportunities outside of the classroom, and global experiences. The Forty Acres Society is not only an opportunity to support excellence at The University of Texas at Austin, but also a wonderful way to remain engaged through a network of other service-minded and outstanding alumni leaders. It's also a forum to discuss innovative ideas with administrators, faculty, alumni, and coaches.

NAMED SCHOLARSHIPS

NAMED SCHOLARSHIPS ARE the most common type of scholarship at the Texas Exes. Established by loyal alumni, friends, and students of The University of Texas, these scholarships serve as memorials to loved ones, pay tribute to the university, and honor special interest groups.

The Texas Exes administers more than 300 named scholarship funds. Each has its own criteria, according to the wishes of the donor. They can be highly specific or fairly broad. Some are merit-based and some required financial need. Others target students in specific academic disciplines or extracurricular organizations. Some factor in race, leadership qualities, or hometown. The range is truly enormous.

This year, 310 students will receive scholarships totaling $1,275,730 from 234 funds, with 12 new scholarships awarded for the first time this year.

"One of the reasons I chose to attend Texas is because of the great alumni support and involvement that continues even after we leave. I am grateful for your contributions and you provide a great example of our great alumni association."

Matt Dorman Memorial Scholarship

RECIPIENT: Raleigh Tanguma

The family of Matt Dorman, BA '04, Life Member, established this scholarship in honor of Dorman after he lost his long and courageous battle with cancer in 2016. Before attending the university in 2000, Matt fought his first battle with Ewing's Sarcoma as a senior in high school and, after beating it, went on to have four wonderful years at UT filled with experiences that created never ending memories and friendships. After graduating, Dorman continued his support and love of anything related to the university. He was an avid UT football fan, never missing a home game while he was a student or after he graduated. When the cancer returned in 2013, Dorman refused to let it interfere with attending home or away games. There will never be a prouder or more loyal fan. Dorman's family established this scholarship so that a student facing some of the same challenges he had might be able to have the same positive, life-changing experiences at UT. The memory of his love for UT and burnt orange will never be forgotten. The scholarship benefits a student who is a resident of Texas and demonstrates financial need, with preference given for an entering freshman who is a cancer survivor or is currently diagnosed with cancer.

CHAPTER & NETWORK SCHOLARSHIPS

ONE OF THE MOST TANGIBLE WAYS alumni stay connected to the university is through participation in their local Texas Exes chapter or affinity network.

Chapters are geographically based groups, both domestic and international, that engage alumni through social, community service, cultural, business networking, student development, and scholarship fundraising events. Networks are national groups organized around ethnicity, profession, or strong affinity to a UT student organization that engage alumni through events and philanthropy.

There are over 120 domestic chapters, 14 international chapters, and seven networks across the globe. On the whole, 69 chapters and networks will award $556,245 to 278 students this year.

"Your input into this scholarship has essentially made the difference between my ability to attend my dream university and having to go elsewhere. Without your generosity, my plan may have been greatly altered, so once again, thank you!"

"I cannot thank you all enough for your continued support. I would not be where I am today had it not been for donors like you. Words could never express how thankful I am for you all. You may not know it, but you all inspire me just by continuously supporting and believing in me and my abilities."

GIVING BACK

AT THE TEXAS EXES, our mission is to promote and protect The University of Texas at Austin and unite alumni around the world. Thanks to the generosity of our donors, we will award a record total of $3.9 million in scholarships to 650 UT students in the 2017-18 academic year.

These scholarships benefit all of the university's colleges and schools and help attract top students from Texas and beyond. Were it not for these scholarships, many of the best and brightest would go elsewhere.

You can be a part of this tradition, too, with a contribution to the Texas Exes, which is a nonprofit 501(c)(3). Donations are tax-deductible and corporate matching gifts may be applied.

Our staff is available to answer any questions and guide you through the process of making a gift of stocks or mutual funds. Please contact us to learn more.

Each fall, scholarship recipients and donors get to meet each other and be recognized at our Scholarship Dinner. We hope to see you there!

In Memoriam

Peter Tyrrell Flawn

NEWTON-FLAWN FORTY ACRES SCHOLARSHIP

PETER T. FLAWN TEXAS EXES AWARD FOR SCHOLARSHIP AND LEADERSHIP

WHEN PETER FLAWN took over as interim president of UT Austin in 1997, while the university searched for Robert Berdahl's replacement, he refused to be a mere custodian for the university he loved. Instead of resting on his laurels, he launched a $1 billion capital campaign called "We're Texas." and fired his vice president for development three weeks after it began.

The man who ignited what he called a "war on mediocrity" during his first term as UT president, which began in 1979, could not and would not be a mere stopgap during the short period that ultimately ended with Larry Faulkner's hiring.

Flawn died in the early morning of May 7, 2017 in his West Austin home. He was 91.

"Peter was a visionary leader at UT, a beloved friend and a wise counselor to me and many university presidents," said UT Austin President Greg Fenves. "His contributions to our great university were immense and we will miss him deeply."

Flawn was born on Feb. 17, 1926, in Miami, Florida. He earned his bachelor's degree from Oberlin College and later a master's and doctorate in geology from Yale. He briefly worked for the U.S. Geological Survey before joining UT Austin's Bureau of Economic Geology, which serves as the state's geologic survey.

From 1960-70, Flawn was both director of the bureau and a professor in the department of geological sciences. In 1970 he became professor of geological sciences and public affairs, and was later named the Leonidas T. Barrow Professor of Mineral Resources.

In 1973, Flawn became the second president of UT San Antonio, serving until 1977. His reign saw a period of increased faculty endowments, a new core curriculum, and raised admission standards.

From 1979-85, Flawn pushed UT Austin to the national stage as its 22nd president, raising faculty endowments from 112 to 851 with the Centennial campaign. Five new research buildings sprung up during his six-year tenure, and sponsored research awards grew to $100 million. Students now study in the Peter T. Flawn Academic Center, renamed in his honor at the same time Flawn retired and became president emeritus of the university in 1985.

The first dean of the Jackson School of Geosciences, William L. Fisher, knew Flawn for 58 years, and counted him as a close friend and colleague. When Fisher arrived on campus in 1959, his office was adjacent to Flawn's.

"A very significant part of the standing of UT Austin is due directly to the leadership and vision of Peter Flawn," Fisher said. "He was a good friend and my prime mentor through the years. We have lost a truly great leader."

"He was a good friend and my prime mentor through the years. We have lost a truly great leader."

Lewis was a member of the UT Chancellor's Council and endowed three scholarships at the university.

Frederick Edmond Lewis Jr.

FRED E. LEWIS, JR. ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIP

FRED E. LEWIS, JR. BELTON HIGH SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP

FRED E. LEWIS, JR. LONGHORN BAND SCHOLARSHIP

FREDERICK EDMOND LEWIS JR., BBA, Life Member, died Jan. 4, 2017, at 88. He joined the 323rd and 4th U.S. Army Band at Ft. Sam Houston and was stationed there for two years. Lewis was accepted as a member of the U.S. Army Presidential Band in Washington, D.C., but declined to study at UT. He was a member of the UT Marching 100 Band, president of the Longhorn Band, and was elected to Kappa Kappa Psi. Lewis was a member of the UT Chancellor's Council and endowed three scholarships at the university. He was a euphonium soloist with the Shrine bands in Waco, Fort Worth, Dallas, and San Antonio and active in the UT Alumni Band. Lewis worked for the Texas Coffin Co. and York Casket Co. for 41 years in Waco and Fort Worth. He was also a 50-year charter member of the Scottish Rite in Waco, a 32nd degree mason, a lifelong Rotarian, and a member of the Episcopal Church.

Margaret Berry

MARGARET C. BERRY SCHOLARSHIP
MARGARET C. BERRY TEXAS EXCELLENCE
AWARD OF RECOGNITION

MARGARET BERRY, BA '37, Life Member, Distinguished Alumna, died on April 9, taking a piece of UT history with her. She was 101.

"I am now, probably for the first time in my life, the person I have always wanted to be," Berry wrote in an Alcalde essay on the occasion of her centennial birthday in 2015. "I would never trade my amazing friends, my wonderful life, for less gray hair."

Berry was born in Dawson, Texas, on Aug. 8, 1915. For nearly 80 years, Berry was one of the university's most stalwart supporters. She graduated from UT Austin with a bachelor's degree in history, and went on to earn a master's degree and doctorate in history from Columbia University. She was known as UT's "unofficial historian," documenting university lore in a number of books, including UT Austin: Traditions and Nostalgia.

Berry held a number of administrative roles over the years at UT, the first of which was her position as the associate dean of women in 1962. She also founded the first telephone counseling service on the university campus, taught a UT class for student leaders titled "Self and the Campus Society" for 25 years, and starting at 80 years old, voluntarily taught a freshman seminar class. Berry was named a Distinguished Alumna in 1996 by the Texas Exes, and in 2005 was dubbed "Austin's Most Worthy Citizen" by the Austin Board of Realtors. In 2012, former UT president Bill Powers dedicated the Student Activity Center's atrium to Berry, officially naming it in her honor after nearly a year of lobbying efforts from students and alumni.

"Margaret Berry touched the lives of tens of thousands of people in the UT-Austin community," said UT-Austin President Gregory L. Fenves in a statement. "As a history graduate who became a beloved teacher, a dean who mentored hundreds of students, and later a university historian and adviser, she made the Forty Acres a better place. Our thoughts are with her family as we remember and celebrate her rich, accomplished life."
